

A Special Message to All WCC®s Regarding the Earthquakes in Haiti and Chile

March 2, 2010

The devastating earthquakes in both Haiti and Chile have claimed the attention of world. Both events are proving to be some of the worst natural disasters of our lifetime. The world is quickly responding to the calls for help and the United States is leading that effort with military and private assistance. Individuals and organizations have donated humanitarian services and money to aid in this mission of recovery and rebuilding. Even though these efforts provide some relief to the immediate situation, much more help will be required in this long-fought battle.

The National Alliance of Wound Care® (NAWC®), the largest wound care certification and member organization in the United States is being made aware of thousands of heroic efforts in the name of Haiti every day. The wound care certified (WCCs®) of the NAWC are passionate about helping in these efforts. To help assist with these efforts the National Alliance of Wound Care has made a cash donation to the American Red Cross. In addition, as a vehicle to help spread the news of corporate and individual relief efforts, the NAWC will provide a dedicated section of our website to post your stories of how your organization is assisting in both Haiti and Chile. We will post your full story on our website with links to the National Alliance of Wound Care Face Book page. Please send your prepared stories to: information@nawccb.org.
