The Right Choice

When considering wound care certification, choose the credential that aligns best with your lifestyle.

The internationally recognized WCC® certification is the number one wound care credential in the United States because of its flexible certification pathways. There are over 18,000+ WCCs making a difference in the lives of their patients and improving the quality of wound care every day.

WCC Growth:

Cumulative WCC Growth per Year

"I decided to add supplemental work at a different hospital. The manager read my resume and saw the WCC wound care certification. She immediately asked me if I could begin working the next day. My WCC certification is a great extra!"

Annette, RN, WCC
Zebulon, North Carolina

Wound Care Certification

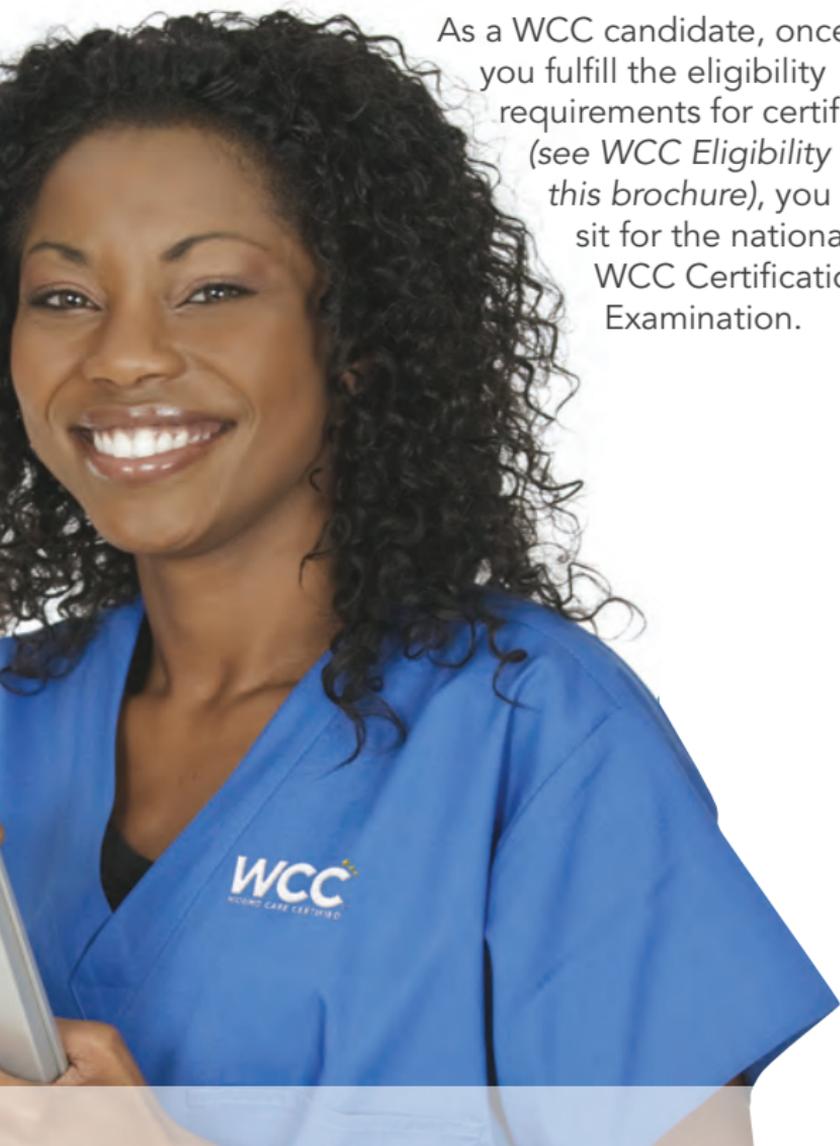

The tested proficiency of WCCs® sets them apart from wound care clinicians of untested industry societies or associations. The WCC credential is the new standard for wound care certification throughout the continuum of care.

The WCC credential is available only from the National Alliance of Wound Care and Ostomy® (NAWCO®), the largest and fastest growing wound care credentialing organization in the world. NAWCO believes wound care certification should be available to all qualified candidates, without programs that involve months of long distance courses and extensive preceptorships that can take you away from your job and family.

Our pathways are straightforward (see WCC Eligibility in this brochure). Depending on your individual experience, WCC certification can be attained in as little as five (5) days.

The WCC credential is good for five (5) years and does not require ongoing annual fees to maintain your status.

As a WCC candidate, once you fulfill the eligibility requirements for certification (see WCC Eligibility in this brochure), you may sit for the national WCC Certification Examination.

Make the Most of Your WCC® Credential

Upon passing the national WCC Certification Examination, you will be entitled to use the initials “WCC” to designate your status. It is important that you include WCC with all your credentials. After all, you earned it and you deserve the recognition that comes along with being a WCC.

The NAWCO

As a WCC, you are automatically a member of the NAWCO family. NAWCO is two organizations; the credentialing board and member association. The NAWCO association offers professional leadership opportunities for WCCs through its programs and initiatives.

Leadership Opportunities

As a WCC, you’ve already demonstrated your expertise in wound care at the clinical level. The leadership opportunities available from NAWCO allow you to grow and expand both personally and professionally.

“Being part of the National Alliance of Wound Care and Ostomy has by far been my best choice for professional development. No other organization brings more nurses, physicians, therapists and faculty together to understand the present and to shape the future of wound care in the United States...”

Examination Item Writing

This initiative enables WCCs to get involved with writing questions for the national WCC Certification Examination. WCCs who would like to try their hand at “item writing” may contact NAWCO for details. There may even be a place for you on our Certification Committee, which writes and reviews all items used on the exam. Active participation on this committee helps satisfy one of your WCC recertification requirements.

Online Job Board and Employment Resources

The NAWCO® online Job Resource Center, WOUND CARE CAREERS, is located on the home page of the NAWCO website. This specialty job board features “wound care only” positions throughout the continuum of care. New career development resources are available to any registered job seeker, allowing you to promote your experience and skills to potential employers in a professional manner.
